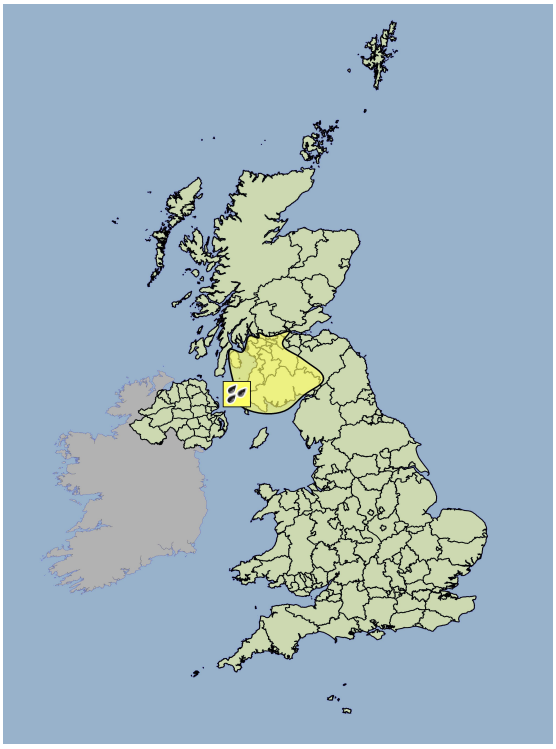
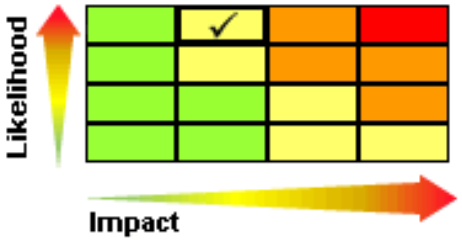
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
A slow moving front will continue to affect southwest Scotland during Monday and Tuesday before slowly clearing southwards during the early afternoon. The heaviest rain will be in the west, especially over the Galloway Hills.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 12:00 on Mon, 22nd Dec 2014 until 15:00 on Mon, 22nd Dec 2014

Persistent rain will continue to affect southwest Scotland on Monday afternoon. The public should be aware of the continued risk of localised flooding, particularly on the road network, where there will be a lot of surface water and spray. This warning ends at 1500 on Monday but a new warning will come into force valid from that time until 1500 on Tuesday.

This is an update to the warning issued on Saturday to highlight the continuation of the rainfall during Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning.
